Ah, Horace will be sadly missed by all who knew him, and the world can never know how much he will be missed in the home circle where he was so much loved by his widowed mother and affectionate and honored by all who knew him. At clerk, in fact, was one of the foremost men. It seems to give a man a new young men of Caneyville. He was just lease of life, even when apparently think his untimely death should be due as good as dead. When Mr. Barnes warning to all to prepare for death, for must pay sooner or later. Death is a for that we must all meet, and well may the poet say :

"The giories of our mortal state Are shadows, not substantial things There is no armor against fate Death lays his ley hands on kings-Scepter and crown And in the dust be equal made

With the poor scythe and spade." Though death has lain this noble most instantly, and Mr. Barnes was on My prayer is that we may meet our his feet again. Thus he has prolonged lost Horace in the bright beyond.
